Law advice to order

WHEN legal matters arise, the last thing you want to worry about is finding the best person to represent you.

Prime Law Brokers take the legwork out of legal representation by providing a bank of carefully selected lawyers.

And better still, the service is free.

Established by Sohila Zanjani in 1996, Prime Law Brokers matches lawyers to clients around Australia.

"Clients have informed us that it is very difficult to choose a lawyer when they have no information and they have to select a lawyer among many others," Sohila says.

Choosing the right lawyer is important because the wrong lawyer can cost clients dearly in money and time.

"We meet our lawyers and they must meet certain standards before we consider their membership to our panel," she says.

"We do not wish to work with lawyers who have little respect for their profession, clients or who are not flexible with their costs."

Sohila says clients have access to Prime Law Brokers 24 hours a day, enabling them to be matched with the best for their specific case.

"The ramifications of such a service in this country are so huge because it will change the face of the profession by insisting on high standards from our lawyers," she says.

Sohila says the referral service acts as an incentive to lawyers who know that the better they perform, the more business they will receive.
